

How to Have Happy and Productive Children Who Love and Respect You

“Am I really doing the right thing as a parent when I _____?”

Do you want YOUR child(ren)::

- To be happy, productive and successful?
- To have joy, admiration and pride in their children?
- To really understand and live up to their true potential?
- To see their children’s dreams come true?
- To love and respect them?
- To leave a wonderful, positive legacy with and for their children?

This is a two-day workshop, where day 1 you learn basic skills, principles and information in the raising of your child(ren). Day 2 is designed for you AND your child(ren) to work together as you apply, with them, the things learned in day 1 – this is a day with many challenging, enlightening and fun experiences that are shared with your child(ren). As part of this second day, you and your child will fill out a survey and compare your answers, this will help you and your child(ren) better understand each other’s real world.

Among the topics covered are the following:

- What is good, positive control, and how it can bring freedom to you and your child.
- What is the common goal of both parent and child?
- How to know the REAL world of your child (and have them know yours).
- How to create understanding and agreement with your child.
- How to not spoil your child, or unspoil them.
- How to preserve your child’s pride and belief in themselves.
- Meeting their educational needs and interests, and what you really MUST know about their education.
- The principles to have a motivated and inspired child.
- How to ensure mutual respect in the family and among family members.
